Observation of Stress Heterogeneity from SAFOD

What observations can we use to constrain small-scale heterogeneity?
- Over what range of length scales can we constrain the stress field?
- What types of models can we develop to constrain small-scale features of the stress field?

Is a statistical (stochastic) description of stress important for the Community Stress Model?

How would stochastic models of stress be represented?
- Could stochastic models be merged with deterministic models?